

Part Time Hourly Laboratory Assistant

Closing Date: End of Spring Semester

Part Time Hourly Laboratory Assistant

The College of Veterinary Medicine Diagnostic Laboratory is hiring a student hourly employee to work in the Microbiology section starting this fall semester. We are offering approximately 10 hours a week during the school year (this includes some weekends and holidays), and up to 40 hours during break. This job requires extensive training and we want to hire students who can stay as long as possible. We are hoping to train for this position 2 weeks prior to the start of classes, which is August 26th. The main responsibilities include specimen set up, preparing reagents and media, set up and reading of antimicrobial susceptibilities and identification plates, some computer functions, with future possibilities of working on microbiology cases. We are seeking those with an interest in the microbiology field and a strong science background. Starting wages are dependent on experience and could increase annually. University of Illinois is an equal opportunity employer.

For more information or to apply, please contact Dr. Carol W. Maddox maddox@illinois.edu (217-265-0399) or Kristin Ellis kle132@illinois.edu (217-300-6411) for more information.