

NCEMS Week Announcement:

This week is NCEMS week! The collegiate EMS organization at the University of Illinois is Illini EMS. We are a BLS non-transport organization with members certified in CPR and/or licensed as First Responders or EMT-Basics. We provide first response medical care to the campus-community at various functions including athletic events, performances at Krannert Center for the Performing Arts, campus commencement ceremonies and other special events.

In celebration of collegiate EMS organizations, Illini EMS (IEMS) will be hosting several activities to promote EMS awareness around the campus.

- On Monday, November 8th, National CPR Day, look for our booth in the SW foyer of the Union to get a 1-minute tutorial in CPR and learn more about what IEMS does.
- On Wednesday, November 10th come to the Quad for free hot chocolate and a chance to get your blood pressure taken....if you can guess your blood pressure, you'll win a prize!
 - Wednesday evening, join us for a safety talk at 7:30pm...location TBA, check out the homepage of our website for the location! Pizza and soda will be provided.
- On Friday, November 12th join us at Firehaus Restaurant at 5pm to partake in CPR-cookies (and dinner) in celebration of NCEMS week!

Also, keep your eyes open for flyers around campus with more details about the week and check out our website at www.illiniems.org!
